Figuring out where the future lies for a business in the building and construction industry?
Need to know what work is coming, and where?

For over ten years, ACIF Forecasts have been the industry’s own forecasts, with a reputation as reliable, highly accurate analyses of the demand for work across all types of work. The November Forecasts delivers the short term and ten year outlook for demand for housing and commercial building, and infrastructure and engineering construction.

Over a five star breakfast, benefit from ACIF’s unique ‘reality filter’, as local industry leaders discuss the forecast and add their insights on the data, the industry and its short term prospects.
